How can they decide what people were in public...opens a can of worms! If you actually look at crime statistics am pretty sure you will find that the vast majority of 1%ers dont have criminal history at all so if what the police are saying is true about violence and drug smuggling in Tassie why has next to nobody in these so called gangs been charged with such offences? If the police have so much info on these said crimes why are they not doing their job...taking colours away from 1%mc's will do very little to stop these crimes, correct? Its all a load of crap...maybe the police and government need to put more money and resources into other areas to stop drug crime and stop wasting taxpayers money on these ridiculous laws!
